Little Megan screamed as her scanty clothing was ripped off. Just a revealing little slip of a uniform, apparently. That was what they made magical girls in training wear. The demon's claws made short work of it, then it grabbed the tiny girl, one hand wrapping entirely around her waist, and lined her up with its impossibly oversized prick. The mammoth organ was as big as her leg, with ...

The juxtaposition of two objects that have little to do with each other is a staple of Dada and Surrealist ideas. Here Dalí combines the telephone, an object meant to be held, intimately next to one's ear, with a large sharp-clawed lobster, its genitalia aligned with the mouthpiece. It presents a literal juxtaposition of a freakish underwater creature with a normal machine of daily life in ...
